OpenText™ Exstream™ for Salesforce® empowers users to create many different types of customer correspondence directly from within their CRM system. This immediate and accurate communication can help improve customer engagement and loyalty, helping to increase profits and lower costs.

Lower costs and enhances productivity

Exstream for Salesforce enables sales teams and customer agents to communicate more effectively. Generating all customer correspondence from a single source, users can access, revise, repurpose and personalize content faster, with less effort and fewer errors.

Ensures compliance and quality

Users can match the message to the customer and situation. They can also standardize templates, policies, control and auditability for customer communication. By generating customer engagement documents using only approved content, organizations maintain tight control over their brand and messaging.

Offers flexible deployment options

Exstream for Salesforce is an application downloaded from the Salesforce AppExchange. There are two different operating modes offered:

1. SaaS mode. Subscribe to our market leading Customer Communication services to rapidly adopt document generation capabilities.
2. Enabler mode. Connect seamlessly to a dedicated OpenText™ Exstream™ platform, wherever it is installed.

Optimizes sales, marketing and services

The document generation solution brings together the industry's leading customer communication management (CCM) product family from OpenText with Salesforce Customer Relationship Management (CRM) cloud solutions.

Exstream for Salesforce helps drive customer insight, improve sales and service productivity and simplify IT platforms—three key objectives on every digital business agenda.

For organizations with sophisticated document processes looking to enable line-of-business users, Exstream for Salesforce deploys with a full range of post-processing options. Organizations can save correspondence to Salesforce, a standard file system repository, OpenText™ Extended ECM for Salesforce®, backup server or business system and send out correspondence via email or upload it in batches to a print shop via FTP.

The OpenText solution is flexible enough to support almost any conceivable channel, including print, email, SMS, web, mobile and social. Other possibilities include advanced IVR integration for automating written responses to phone inquiries and integration with Google® Drive and Google® Docs for collaborating on longer documents, such as complex proposals.
